BUCKNER & WOOLDRIDGE'S

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 1st, 1879.

Another Commercial year has passed and in briefly reviewing its history we can again justly say that prices all along, from the beginning to the close, though apparently low when compared with former years, were fully up and often ahead of any market in the West, and at times equal to Sea Board prices, and when we consider the beavy stocks in all the open markets of the world, the very inferior quality of the erop, wanting in gum and body, a large portion of which was badly "cooked," or "fire-killed," the prices obtained should be fully satisfactory to all, and compels us here to again say we certainly have here at home the very best market for the planter and country dealer, and destined to be in the early fature the good. Tobacco Mart of Southern Kentneky, situated as we are in the center of a tobacco field—the largest producing district in the world—growing a peculiar type of tobacco well known throughout Europe, where planters can come and see their crops sold and return the same day.

Our manner of selling tobacco will be the same as in the past, that is by sample, at auction, at a general Exchange. We now have a full Board of both home and foreign buyers, and a large portion of our sales go to Europe. Our reduction of one dollar per hogshead to the buyer, while it cuts a good figure in the matter of bread and meat to a poor Warehouseman, will certainly result in strengthening the market by inducing more orders from both home and foreign dealers, thereby increasing competition and finally a benefit to the planter or seller. Our Bonded Inspection, though costly to us, has, we are happy to say, given general satisfaction, and while it is fair and liberal to the planter as though done by ourselver, it gives greater confidence to the bettler, and though a loss to us will prove a gain to all patrons of this market.

Now, in regard to prices for the couning coop, too much depends on events occurring in the near future to venture an opinion at this time, however, we look for a brisk and healthy market at good and fair prices. We certainly have a crop greatly superior to last year, and while a portion was cut green from field, fire and other causes it will show a good per cent, of line, rich, wrappery and German knds of tobaccos, possessing good body, gum and elasticity, and cured with less fire and anoke than for several years past.

Clusing we would very kindle thank our friends and continuous for their very liberal patronness devine the Closing, we would very kindly thank our friends and ensumers for their very liberal patronage during the past year, and we here promise them again as well as all others who may entrust their business to our house, that we shall, as in the past, personally do our best to promote their intenst on all shipments. From our long connection with the tobacco trade and Warchouse business we feel in a position fully competent to keep you advised as regards prices and the future demands for the weed throughout the world. We would refer you to statistics below for further particulars.
